

At last! A portable urinal kit which enables women, men and children to pee anywhere... No more blue port-a-potties.

I don't know anyone who actually enjoys using one of these infamous blue toilets... you know, the "Johnnies on the spot" found all over festival grounds. Those little blue plastic boxes always feature an endless line-up, some stomach-churning odours, a lack of toilet paper, and naturally, less than ideal cleanliness. Only minutes after the start of the show, these toilets are already virtually unusable.

But now those days are gone! There's a product that is 100% sanitary, 100% discreet and made from recycled materials – and it even carries the user-friendly name of GO PEE. This simple, compact system includes a hygienic liner bag covering a small rubber ring. Inside the bag, a super-absorbent pad transforms liquid into a gel within a few seconds. Women can finally pee standing up by discreetly sliding the system under their skirt or inside their pants. After use, simply remove the bag from the ring - which will always stay clean, since it's protected by the sanitary bag – and tie with the handy drawstrings provided. As the liquid has been transformed into gel, you can place it in your backpack; it is odourless and mess-free.

Hygie Canada, creator of this product, has been manufacturing and marketing hygiene products for hospitals and home care in Quebec since 2006. These new products, ideal for travel and the great outdoors, are designed with the same technology and quality as those for healthcare institutions. For only a few dollars, they will help you avoid uncomfortable situations and make your life much easier.
